Honoring the History of Health

Honoring the History of Health, our April-May 2017 exhibit, highlighted the contributions of a number of Chatham County physicians, pharmacists, and North Carolina's first organic farmer. From the early 19th century to the present day, from Gulf to Pittsboro, Egypt to Siler City, these Chatham healers used the potions and practices of their times to treat the ailments of their neighbors. The exhibit also included a display of early medical artifacts.

CCHA is grateful to the following for their contributions to this exhibit: S&T Soda Shoppe, Pittsboro; JR Moore & Son, Gulf; Cecilia Budd Grimes, Siler City; Chatham County Libraries.

This display was exhibited in April – May 2017.

African Americans in Chatham County History

This display highlighted the lives of eight Chatham County African Americans who contributed in various ways to the county's rich history from the 1700s to the present. Learn about Lewis Freeman, an early and successful free black settler in Pittsboro; Mildred Edna Cotton Council of Mama Dip's Kitchen in Chapel Hill; John Chavis, "Missionary to the Slaves;" Alexander Scarborough, a slave who served as sexton of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church; Gatha Horton Lassiter, "Conscience of the Community;" as well as Benjamin Joseph Lee; J.R. Richardson; and Simon Green Atkins. Their stories are part of the tapestry of Chatham County's history. Exhibited in February and March 2017.

Goin' Home, Goin' Home

This display highlighted a few of the African-American Funeral Programs in CCHA's collection. These programs represent a rich tradition in the black community and a valuable resource for those interested in family histories. Written by and about African Americans, the obituaries provide an important source of local history about African Americans in Chatham County, highlighting religious, occupational and educational affiliations, as well as personal traits that loved-ones noted about the deceased.
