Talking Black in America

Sunday, February 17, 2019 ~ 2:00 pm
Historic Chatham County Courthouse
Pittsboro

The Chatham County Historical Association invites you to a special screening of Talking Black in America, a documentary about the most misunderstood language variety in the history of American English. Filmed across the United States--from the rural South to metropolitan areas of the North--it examines the historical roots of African-American language, focusing on the speech of everyday speakers, together with the observations of linguists and historians.

Talking Black in America highlights the rich tradition of language skills of the African-American community-- the tradition of creative oratory performance and rhetoric, ranging from preaching to hip hop and rap—and celebrates the creativity and resilience of people living through oppression, segregation and the fight for equality.

The documentary will be introduced by Dr. Walt Wolfram, who directs the Language and Life Program at North Carolina State University. Dr. Wolfram is William C. Friday Distinguished University Professor at North Carolina State University and has pioneered research on social and ethnic dialects since the 1960s and published more than 20 books and over 300 articles.

A question and answer period will follow the 60-minute film. The program is free and all are welcome.

2018 Events

Bells of Peace: A World War I Remembrance

*On November 11, 2018 at 11:00am local time...
Americans across the nation will toll bells in remembrance of those who served and sacrificed in The Great War.*

This observance will mark the centennial of the armistice that brought an end to hostilities in what Americans fervently hoped had been “the war to end all wars.” WWI ended by an armistice agreement at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918.

Chatham County will participate in the nationwide program, which is designed to honor American men and women who served 100 years ago during World War I--especially the 116,516 who died. On Sunday, Nov. 11, 2018 at 11:00 am, the chimes in the bell tower of the Historic Chatham County Courthouse will ring.

The Chatham County Historical Association is encouraging other groups, churches, and individuals to participate. Wherever you are at 11:00 am on Sunday, Nov. 11, 2018, let a bell sound to honor Armistice Day.

Other 2018 WWI Commemorative Activities in Chatham:

The Chatham Historical Museum will display a special WWI exhibit during the month of November and several WWI artifacts are on display in our permanent exhibits. The museum is open Wed, Thurs, and Fri from 11 to 4, and will be open on First Sunday, November 4 from 11 until 4:30.

A WWI exhibit will also be on display at the Chatham Community Library during October and November—a joint project of the library and CCHA—highlighting local WWI resources.

Also on First Sunday, Nov 4, museum volunteers will scan photographs of Chatham County veterans (from all wars) for addition to the museum’s Valor display. More info.

Add Your Chatham Veteran's Photo

One of the permanent exhibits in the Chatham County Historical Museum is "A Tribute to Valor," which honors Chatham men and women who have served in the Armed Forces throughout Chatham's history. A photo frame displays photographs contributed to the collection.

If you have not contributed your Chatham veteran's photograph, please do! We do not need to keep your original. We can accept digital images or help you scan your original.

On First Sunday, November 4, 2018, Museum volunteers will scan veterans' photos brought to the Museum between noon and 4:00pm. Along with the photograph we will be happy to receive any information you may have about the veteran.

If you'd rather send a digital copy of a Chatham veteran's photo, please email it, along with the signed release form and other info about the veteran to Museum@chathamhistory.org. If we have any questions about the photo, we'll email you.

The Chatham Historical Museum is located in the Historic Chatham County Courthouse.

Voices of North Carolina

The Legacy of Tar Heel Talk

Sunday, October 7, 2018, 2:00 pm
Historic Courthouse, Pittsboro
Free and open to the public.

One of the under-recognized traditions of the Tar Heel State is its linguistic heritage, from the historically isolated Outer Banks dialects of Ocracoke and Harkers Islands to the mountain dialects and Cherokee language of the Smoky Mountains. On Sunday, October 7 at 2:00pm, in the Historic Chatham County Courthouse in Pittsboro, Dr. Walt Wolfram will profile the regional and ethnic traditions of language and dialects through a series of video and audio vignettes that have come from more than two decades of extensive research, documentary production, and preservation activities. No state has a richer tradition of language variation than North Cackalacky. Join us to celebrate the voices of North Carolina as an integral part of North Carolina's historical and cultural legacy.

Walt Wolfram is William C. Friday Distinguished University Professor at North Carolina State University, where he also directs the Language and Life Project. He has pioneered research on social and ethnic dialects since the 1960s and published more than 20 books and over 300 articles. Over the last two decades, he and his students have conducted more than 3,500 sociolinguistic interviews with residents of North Carolina extending from Murphy to Manteo. He has received numerous awards, including the North Carolina Award--the highest award given to a citizen of North Carolina.

The Chatham County Historical Association program is free and the public is welcome! Join us to learn more about another aspect of North Carolina's rich and varied history.

Look for CCHA at Chatham County's Spring Ag Fest

CCHA will be at Chatham County's Spring Ag Fest to help celebrate Chatham County Agriculture, Forestry, and Natural Resources. This year we'll highlight our Smokehouse restoration project. Come see our progress on restoring the mid-1800s smokehouse which was found on the Ag Center property and is being reconstructed in the courtyard of the Agriculture and Conference Center to preserve a reminder of a time-honored agricultural tradition.

We had a great time at last year's grand opening and look forward to sharing the smokehouse story with you this year!

(also CCHA annual meeting)

Dr. Carole Troxler
The Regulator Movement and the Revolution in the North Carolina
Backcountry

All three programs will begin at 2:00pm and be held in the Historic Chatham County Courthouse.

Gene Brooks is a respected local historian whose profession was and avocation continues to be history. A native Chathamite, Brooks taught history at Pittsboro High School and Northwood High School for thirty years. He also served on Pittsboro's Town Board for thirty years. His community work has included teaching GED classes at Central Carolina Community College as well as teaching his Sunday school class. Brooks was a leader in reactivating and energizing the Chatham County Historical Association in 1988, after a hiatus of several years. His expertise has been recognized by several generations of Chatham citizens, and he has been called by his many admirers the “dean of Chatham County history.”

Carole Troxler is Professor emerita of Elon University, where she taught history for 33 years. She is the author of five books, including the 2011 work, Farming Dissenters: The Regulator Movement in Piedmont North Carolina. The North Carolina Society of Historians has honored Professor Troxler with a 2017 Historical Book Award for her newest book and first work of fiction, The Red Dog: A Tale of the Carolina Frontier (Lizzy's Yarn), a work also set in the 1760s in the Piedmont region of central North Carolina. Dr. Troxler delights in the study of “obscure people”--people who left little in the way of letters and private papers and who haven't been considered “important people.”
