

Temporary Exhibits

The courthouse hallways house a number of temporary exhibits available to museum visitors. These changing exhibits highlight various aspects of Chatham County History. Currently on display:

Harvest History

Our September-October 2017 display highlights various aspects of Chatham's rich and diverse agricultural history. From plantations to sharecropping and from cornshuckings to harvest parades, you'll find an interesting collection of fall facts and recollections.

Our thanks to the following sources of information for this exhibit: NC Cooperative Extension, Library of Congress Farm Security Administration, Raleigh N&O Past Times, and the Chatham Community Library.

The Battle of Alamance

This exhibit recounts the history of the Battle of Alamance -- considered by some historians to be the first battle of the Revolutionary War. The Battle took place May 16, 1771, between the North Carolina Provincial Militia and the North Carolina Regulators. The Regulators were ordinary backcountry citizens—many of whom lived in what would become Chatham County. They believed citizens should regulate the government, and turned to armed rebellion after their petitions for relief from grievances imposed by corrupt officials failed. Governor Tryon's position was the Regulators were in rebellion against their King, country, and laws. The Regulators were defeated in the battle and Governor Tryon took twelve prisoners—six of whom were later hung and six pardoned. Chatham Cemetery Map Exhibit

The Chatham Cemetery Map in the courthouse hallway shows the locations and names of all known cemeteries in Chatham County. If you know of a cemetery that doesn't appear to be on the map, please let us know! Our goal is to document every gravesite in the county. Chatham Courthouse Fire 2010

In recent years, one of the most significant historical events in Chatham County was the 2010 courthouse fire. This exhibit tells the story of the fire and the subsequent reconstruction of the courthouse in pictures.

The fire began in the attic on March 25, 2010 due to a construction accident during a renovation of the structure. Firefighters battled the blaze for several days. The interior of the building was extensively damaged, but the heavy masonry walls were found to be structurally sound.

The building's significance to the community was evident in the strong desire that residents expressed to have the building restored rather than replaced. County officials acted on that wish and the courthouse was reconstructed over the next two years. It reopened in April of 2013, housing CCHA's office and museum on the first floor and a courtroom on the upper floor.

Mobile Display Cabinet

The museum's mobile display cabinet is made from mahogany from the historic courthouse that survived the fire in 2010. It was designed and built by CCHA volunteer Rouse Wilson III and contains items from the Museum's Collection. The display changes as the archivist accepts new artifacts into the collection.
