

Volunteer

Gain a unique perspective on Chatham County history as a volunteer!

CCHA volunteers offer their skills and time to provide essential support for our mission of preserving and sharing Chatham County's story. Whether you enjoy donning your boots to hike through the woods to photograph an old house or cemetery, or prefer staying in your slippers while you enter data to a database from home, we can use your help.

There are many ways to help:

- Learn and share interesting facts about the county's history by becoming a museum volunteer. We need greeters, docents, 4th grade field trip leaders, re-enactors, story tellers, exhibit designers, and event planners. To learn more, click here.
- Help research and produce special exhibits, news articles or research papers about a part of Chatham's history that interests you.
- Help catalog the collection or digitize photographs or documents for addition to our online collections.
- Donate or loan items of local interest to the CCHA collection.
- Suggest speakers, programs, or exhibits that would interest you. Help us organize them!
- Help document Chatham County historic structures or cemeteries.
- Contribute clippings to CCHA's local history file, or help maintain the files at the library.
- Contribute your published Chatham family history or your notes to the family history files at the library.
- Share old photos of people and places in Chatham's past, or take and donate photos of current places of interest.
- Offer your writing, research, performing, photography skills, or share your artifact or photograph collection.
- Help us maintain the Manly Law Office structure or grounds.

Think you don't know enough about Chatham to help? You're in luck! It's our job to fix that! Sharing Chatham's history is what we do. Join our diverse volunteer team and meet your Chatham neighbors and visitors who share an interest in the rich history of our county.

To volunteer you must be a member of CCHA . Let us know how you'd like to help. We'll be delighted to have you on our team.
