

CCHA Hosts Preservation North Carolina Board at Historic Chatham County Courthouse

The Chatham County Historical Association was pleased to host the board of Preservation North Carolina (PNC) at the Historic Chatham County Courthouse on Saturday, February 2, 2019. The group enjoyed tours of the Courthouse and Museum, led by CCHA officers, Grimsley Hobbs and Cindy Schmidt, and lunch at the Pittsboro Roadhouse.

Preservation North Carolina promotes and protects North Carolina's diverse architectural heritage by acquiring endangered historic properties and then finding purchasers willing and able to rehabilitate them.

Several of PNC's successes are showcased in Pittsboro:

- The Patrick St. Lawrence House \(Yellow House\)
- The McClenahan House
- The Taylor House
and
- The Lewis Freeman House

PNC is currently trying to find a new owner for the Griffin-White house east of Pittsboro.
