

Photos from CCHA Collection Shared on DigitalNC

Almost 100 photographs from the Chatham County Historical Association collection have been shared online, thanks to a partnership between the CCHA and the NC Digital Heritage Center. This batch of materials includes photographs of twentieth century Chatham County. Among the subjects covered by the photos are local schools and residences, activities at the Gilmore Hunting Lodge, Carbonton dam construction, the Carolina Power and Light Company, churches, and other subjects.

We will also be showcasing these photos on our website and on the Chatham Historical Museum Facebook page, along with additional information about the subjects, where available. More photos will be added to the online collection. Stay tuned for more Chatham County history!

CCHA wishes to thank CCHA volunteer Rich Szary and the NC Digital Heritage Center for helping us share these photographs with the larger community.
