

CCHA Tells Smokehouse Story at Ag Fest 2018

The mid-1800s smokehouse, which had stood on the Ag Center property for more than 150 years when the county bought the property in 2012, has now been relocated to the courtyard of the Agriculture and Conference Center where it will serve as a reminder of Chatham County's rich agricultural past. In this photo, the smokehouse is still under construction and readied for Ag Fest by volunteers, who installed enough siding to discourage young explorers during the festival.

Kenneth Crabtree and Dan Perry, ready to tell the story of the smokehouse's four-year journey from a spot just yards away to the permanent location in the courtyard to Ag Fest visitors.

If you missed us at Ag Fest, see the story of the smokehouse journey here.

Visitors learning about, admiring, and celebrating the smokehouse reconstruction.

